COUNCILMEN AS BRUISERS.

Omaha Has a Rich Scandal in Her City Government.

OMAHA, Nov. 28.—The special meeting of the city council to-night wound up in a big row, in which three councilmen severely pounded each other, and the spectators present had to separate them. There had been bad blood existing for some time between Councilmen Specht, Moriarty, and Blumer on account of charges of boodling preferred by the former against the latter. Blumer and Moriarty objected to the sufficiency of the bond ordered by Treasurer-elect Bolen, which caused Specht's ire to rise. After a few words had been interchanged Blumer grasped Specht by the throat, and the latter retaliated with a sledge hammer blow which drew blood from Blumer's mouth. The men grappled and fell when Moriarty rushed up and began kicking Specht. One of the spectators objected to his kicking a man when he was down, and when Moriarty did not desist the objector laid the belligerent kicker low with a blow that cut an ugly gash in Moriarty's chin. By this time the other councilmen and the spectators rushed in and separated the men, and the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Hatfield was seen by a Tribune reporter at No. 37 West Thirty-seventh street and gave the following account of his imprisonment:

My imprisonment extended over a period of eight or nine months, during which time I was subjected to many indignities and insults. My private correspondence was opened, and read before delivery, and my property seized, and sold for alleged debts, proofs of which have never been established. Finally, I was liberated, no evidence having been found against me.

The outcome of the investigation by the State Department was the above-mentioned claim. Mr. Hatfield said that Secretary Blaine had instructed the United States Minister at The Hague to bring the matter to a termination. Mr. Hatfield is well known in New York and Washington.

THE DOORKEEPERSHIP.

Enthusiastic for General Field.
Major Walter F. Halleck, a brave and chivalrous Union soldier, who lost one eye in the battle of Murfreesboro, and who recently exoriated a mean fellow who had cast a slur on the women of the South, is a leading candidate for Doorkeeper of the next House of Representatives at Washington. He will receive a large vote from the Southern Democratic members and a majority from the Northern States."—Jacksonville (Fla.) Standard.

Major Halleck in regard to this says: "I desire the success of the Democratic party, and a long lease of its majority in the national House of Representatives. And a just and liberal recognition of the South that has ever stood up with a certainty for the nominees of the party. It is for this reason and without promise of place or favor that I think that splendid gentleman and gallant American soldier, General Charles W. Field, should be once more selected to fill the position of Doorkeeper—an office he has dignified—and I earnestly request my friends to give him their support for the same reasons."

To meet these claims the order has $70,000 in cash and $77,000 locked up in the suspended Spring Garden National Bank.
